

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The current expenses for the town of Norwich 50 years ago amounted to $22,111, or about 19 per cent of today's expenses. The republicans won a sweeping victory, much to the disgust of their opponents who thought they were certain of victory.

Extracts from The Bulletin's files of 1870 follow:

Oct. 1, 1870—At the annual meeting of the Norwich school district held Friday evening, Turner Stanton, Edward Hunter and Jared D. Bailey were elected the committee for the year ensuing. William Grant was elected clerk and Samuel Prentiss collector and treasurer. The committee was authorized to report to the next meeting.

vinced that fruition of their hopes was at hand, the vote was read. "I'll be damned, it's a lie," shrieked one disgusted democrat. "I demand a recount of the vote," cried another. "Curses the luck, it's all their resolutions," said a third with about twenty-five cents worth of clothes on. "I'm sick," was the general feeling. Those 21 guns for which the powder was bought were not fired by the democracy last evening.

After the polls had been closed the various town reports were accepted at the town meeting. It was voted that the salary of the selectmen be the same as last year, $1,600 in all, $12,000 to the first selectman, and $200 to each of the others. It was voted to lay a tax of 8 mills on the dollar on the grand list of the town.

Oct. 5, 1870—At the annual meeting of Niagara Engine Co., No. 2, the following officers were elected: Foreman, Louis Greenberg; secretary, J. D. Duggan; treasurer, William Hall. Mr. Duggan, who has served five years, declined re-election.

The opening day of the fair of the New London County Agricultural Society was marked by no special features of interest. The entries in all classes were few and the attendance was small. The large building, however, was being rapidly filled by exhibitors and the prospect is that the display there will be unusually fine.

Our democratic friends have now no consolation for their defeat on Monday, but to cry over their split milk. And they lift up their voices in a stentorian wail which ought to draw tears from a Block Island codfish. Yet in their agony they find time for the inevitable resource of the defeated—capering. It is like the halm of Gilead and it poutices the bruises of battle.

Oct. 6, 1870—The city reservoir, when measured yesterday, shows that the water was twenty-seven inches below high water mark.

The Palls company have started work on enlarging the ditch from the dam to the mill, and rebuilding the sides with stone. This is expected to give a greater flow of water onto the wheel, hence additional power.

Although a thick fog hung over the fair grounds yesterday morning the crowd of honest farmer folk appeared bright and early and hitching their wagons outside the ground pastured the mags in the fields and started to take in the sights at the county fair. The fog cleared up later in the morning and by afternoon the sun, apprehensive face of the many vendors gave way to a smile of expectancy. The races of the afternoon were fast and were witnessed by a large crowd.

Oct. 7—In the town elections in New London county four towns swung from the democratic side to the republican side while only one town was gained by the democrats from the republicans. The following are the republican towns: Bozrah, Groton, Griswold, Lohan, Montville, New London, North Stonington, Norwich, Sprague—gain, Lisbon, gain.

Oct. 8, 1870—A man named John Kelly and employed as a brakeman on the second express freight on the Norwich and Worcester rail, fell between two cars Thursday night when near Norwich. The train passed over his body. He was not missed until two other trains had passed when a search was made and the fragments of his mutilated corpse collected. The remains were brought to this city and buried in the cemetery on Elm street yesterday.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE TAUGHT

ECONOMY IN COOKING

More emphasis was placed on economy in cooking during the past school year. This is expected to give a greater flow of water onto the wheel, hence additional power.

At the completion of the school year 1919-1920 we could feel that more work had been accomplished in the domestic science room than ever before, since we had more to show for our labors in the line of canning and preserving of fruits and vegetables.

More emphasis was placed upon economy in cooking than previous years, as a result of the recent lessons taught us during the period of the war on the conservation of food and thrift.

The seventh grades first learned something in an elementary way about the foods they were to cook, as to their keeping qualities, how they should be properly cooked, whether easy or difficult to digest, and of what food value. For their practice lessons they prepared grape sauce, apples cooked in several ways, creamed vegetables, candy at Christmas time, cream of wheat, oatmeal, rice, corn-starch puddings, potato soup, tomato soup, macaroni with cheese, cornmeal muffins, gingerbread, baking powder biscuits, orange shortcake, griddle bread, yeast bread, eggs served in several ways, pop-over, custards, custard puddings and gelatin.

The eighth grades after learning the reasons for and ways of preserving fruits and vegetables started in their practice work in the fall with strenuous efforts in canning.

The following articles were put up during the year: Applesauce, corn, beans, tomatoes, beets, peaches, pears, quince and apple jelly, grape jelly, grape conserve, pepper relish, beet pickle, orange marmalade.

laid and canned pineapple.

All of these preserved goods were sold in February at very low prices. The children who put them up were given the first chance to buy them, and the entire stock disappeared very rapidly. One hundred and six dollars was taken in from this sale and this money was turned in for general expenses of the department.

After the fall canning, the eighth graders reviewed the fundamental principles of cookery taken up the previous year and continued work in the study of meats, fish, and the making and baking of cakes, cookies and pies.

The following dishes were prepared by them: Stuffed apple pudding, prune pudding, chocolate bread pudding, snow pudding, escalloped cabbage and cheese, cheese omelette, meat loaf, browned hash, creamed codfish, baked narrag, fudge, baking powder biscuits, bread, hermits, chocolate drop cookies, sponge cake, cup cakes, layer cake, sugar cookies, ginger snaps, custard pie and several salads.

The happiest part of this work in domestic science came the last two months when they learned how to set the table correctly.

Menus for a breakfast, lunch and dinner were made out, and the correct formal and informal serving of these meals was practiced. Then at other seasons the food or these meals was prepared by part of the class and served to other classes.

Poultry Culling Demonstrations

Seven culling demonstrations were conducted in New London county the past week by Professor Jones of the Connecticut Agricultural College who was accompanied for this purpose by the New London County Farm Bureau. The demonstrations were held in the towns of Yantic, Ledyard, Waterford, Groton, Preston, Lyme and Niantic. At practically all of the demonstrations there was a fair attendance and those present were requested to report later at the Farm Bureau office just how many hens they culled out of their flocks as the result of learning the method shown at the demonstration.

Applications have already been made to the Farm Bureau office for a number of pullet culling demonstrations to be held in November or December at which time Professor Jones will show the points to be considered in deciding whether or not to keep pullets over winter. There is still opportunity for a number of other communities to put in their applications if interest warrants, but these should be in as soon as possible.
